On Our Way: We Voted Unanimously YES! for Our Bargaining Priorities

We are standing together for our patients and our families and unanimously voted YES on bargaining proposals that will secure better standards for patient care, our co-workers and the community.

A strong majority of us filled out bargaining surveys and voted UNANIMOUSLY in support of our bargaining priorities. We know that our voices and actions will hold CHI accountable to the needs of our community and the quality care our patients require.

We are ready to bring our voices and strength as a union to the bargaining table and will continue to take action for a strong contract.

"We are growing our strength because so many people from across all departments are involved. With a majority of us voting, we have a strong voice in determining the course of our next three years. We are ready to take action and bring our proposals to the bargaining table in May."

Jeanne Oden, RN, Family Childbirth.

First Day of Bargaining: May 17
