

We are Unified in Saying “Respect Us, Protect Us and Pay Us”

Our collective actions are working! Our informational picket demonstrated our dedication to one another and our patients by standing together on the picket line — which is why we were able to push management on some of our major issues this past bargaining session. Management made some movement but not enough to get what we need to take care of our families and patients.

It's important that we stay united and continue to have conversations with our coworkers everyday about what's going on at the bargaining table. We will remain committed to the fight to win a contract that achieves livable wages, safe staffing, affordable health care, equity, and an educational pathway through our training fund to help invest in our patients, our families and community.

“Much progress has been made but much remains here at the bargaining table. We will keep the pressure on management, keep pushing Providence to do what's right, because we have the power to make St. Pete's better. Ask your bargaining rep what is next and what can be done to get there.” Desmond Ellis, Environmental Services, EVS Tech

“There was some good progress made at the bargaining table on Monday. We still have a way to go but our team is very committed to our coworkers and getting a good contract.”

Ashley Hoskins, CNA, ICU-Neuro

We are turning it up at St. Peter's as we get ready to take action!

We are at the bargaining table fighting for the future of our patients and community. When it comes to protecting our patients, we will make our voices heard! Sign on to the Unity Petition to commit to doing what it takes to win a contract that values all of us. This includes taking public action, including voting to authorize an Unfair Labor Practice STRIKE if necessary!

What's happening with bargaining?

On Monday, we gave management 3 “package proposals” that included:

1. Union Rights
2. Staffing
3. Working Conditions and Safety

Our next bargaining session is next Wednesday, February 16th, which gives management another opportunity to do the right thing by their employees and patients. We are telling Providence St. Peter's you cannot lead the way from behind!
