

United for a strong contract

It's not just us as healthcare workers feeling the impact of the staffing crisis – our patients and community are also affected, which is why our bargaining team has been working hard on proposals that address safety for staff and patients as well as benefits and wages that will help with recruitment and retention. Unfortunately, management has not come back with proposals that would help with any of these issues. We are still waiting for a response on our economic proposals.

“There is no safety for workers or patients, management needs to invest in and listen to frontline healthcare workers and take our proposals seriously!”

- Adiam Gidey, ICU/PCU RN

“Our team has been very productive at a fast rate that shows good faith bargaining and management needs to do the same.”

- Melissa Swetland, ED RN

Our team will be in the cafeteria on Thursday, August 11 from 11am–2pm
Swing by to get a full bargaining update!

Our next bargaining date is August 30
